

SAFE

Supporting Affected Families from Extremism

If you have lost a loved one to violent extremism or terrorism, or If you are concerned about an individual who may be vulnerable to radicalisation,

And feel that you have no one to talk to,

we can help you.

We are an INDEPENDENT and CONFIDENTIAL service for families to speak openly about their concerns - however big or small. Whether it is just a listening ear or practical help and guidance with a specific issue, we are here for you.

Please call our free helpline 0800 9175 541 to speak to someone from our family specialist support team.

Alternatively, you can send a message to info@safetogether.org

This project is led by Micheal Evans, who has been directly affected by extremism after his brother, Thomas Evans, joined the terrorist organisation Al-Shabaab in 2011 and was later killed in 2015.

No family affected by extremism should be left to feel stigmatised, alone and unsupported through these ambiguous and challenging times.
